Jet Hits Homes; Pilot Killed

Associated Press

DALLAS - A jet pilot who was being tested for the U.S. Navy was killed Thursday when he crashed just off takeoff at Ft. Worth, killing the fighter and smashing into a two-story residence.

The residents of the homes were away when the pilot was Lt. Gary H. Rettig, 31, of Grand Prairie.

Both homes and the detached garage caught fire. The homes were severely damaged and the garage was destroyed.

The police warned neighbors, saying the plane carried live ammunition. But no new fatalities were reported.

Gen Ramcke, A Top Hitler Commander

KAPPEL, Germany - Gen. Bernhard Ramcke, commander of German paratroopers during World War II, died here Thursday, a spokesman announced Saturday. Capt. Ramcke was one of Adolf Hitler's most decorated officers.

He was taken prisoner by U.S. forces after the battle of Brest on Sept. 20, 1944. A French court charged him with war crimes and sentenced him to five years in prison in 1954 and was released shortly afterward because of failing health.
