OBITUARIES

U.S. Heart Plant Patient Dies; Set Survival Record

ABERDEEN, S.D. - A 55-year-old man, named as the nation's longest surviving heart transplant recipient, died Sunday after being declared dead after surgery.

The cause of his death was not immediately known. He had been in a hospital recovering from surgery, which had been performed in January. He was declared dead after the hospital's doctors and nurses were unable to revive him.

Other Obituaries

DEATHS

MRS. C. A. DENNING

Arlington, Va. - Mrs. C. A. Denning, 85, the nation's longest surviving heart transplant recipient, died Sunday night at 11:30.

Mrs. Denning, a former Acrobat, underwent heart surgery in July 28 in Boston. The surgery was performed by Dr. Sir. A. A. Century, a heart surgeon. She was expected to live at least 50 years after the surgery.

She had been in Boston recovering from surgery when she was declared dead. She had been in a hospital recovering from surgery, which had been performed in January. She was declared dead after the hospital's doctors and nurses were unable to revive her.

Other Obituaries

On Page 40